We the students Department of Commerce assembled in our college campus around 7:00 A.M. and started journey from college at 8:00 A.M. on Dt 29-01-2023 with the guidance and accompany of our HOD Sri Hitesh Kumar Sahu, Reader in Commerce, and Sri Tulsidas Rana & Bijaya Parida, Lecturer in Commerce. We reached our destination i.e Nrusinghanath Temple at around 10:00 A.M. and tke breakfast. First we visit Nrusinghanath Temple which is famous for God Nrusinghanath it is situated in Bargarh District near Paikmal town. The place is full of natural beauty with waterfall in Gandhmardan Mountain. According to Odia and Devnagiri inscription the temple was built by Baijal Dev in early 15th Century A.D. after worship of the Lord Vishnu and went to Chaldhar and Kapildhar, which is famous for Howling water. One another place called Panchpandava is also there having mythological importance. Statutes of 5 five Brothers are engraved there. The top of the Gandhmardan Mountain is called BHIM Madua, after visiting the place we returned back at 2:00 P.M. and took lunch. Again we started the return journey at 4:00 P.M. from there to our destination.

As Nrusinghanath Temple is famous in western Odisha, tourist from Odisha as well as Chattisgarh and Bihar came here. A lot potential is for their tourism development. The Government must take steps towards this. Which will enhance the economic condition of the people.

Location:-

Sirpur is a village in Mahasammund district in the state of Chhattisgarh, 35 km from Mahasamund city and 82 km away from Nuapada on the banks of river Mahanadi. Sirpur was capital of Panduvanshi dynasty in ancient times. The village hosts the Sirpur Group of Monuments consisting of Buddhist, Hindu and Jain temples and monasteries. These are dated from the 5th to 12th century. In Chhattisgarh the drainage system is largely guided by river Mahanadi, Sheonath and Hasdeo. The place under discussion i.e Sirpur falls under the drainage system of river Mahanadi. Climatically the region enjoys tropical rainy climate with almost dry winter.

The town of Sirpur (aka Shirpur) has been mentioned in epigraphic and textual records dated to the 5th to the 8th centuries CE. The city was once the capital of the Sharbhapuriya and Somavamshi kings of Dakshina Kosala state. It was an important Hindu, Buddhist and Jain settlement of the South Kosala kingdom between the 5th and the 12th century. It was visited by Hieun Tsang, the 7th century Chinese Buddhist pilgrim. Recent excavations have uncovered 12 Buddhist viharas, 1 Jain vihara, monolithic statues of Buddha and Mahavira, 22 Shiva temples and 5 Vishnu temples, Shakti and Tantric temples, underground granary market and a sixth-century bath house.

Sirpur became a major archaeological site after it was visited in 1882 by Alexander Cunningham, a colonial British India official. His report on a Laxman (Lakshmana) temple at Sirpur brought it to international attention. The site remained neglected in early 20th-century during the decades of the World Wars, and excavations resumed in 1953. There were further excavations in 1990s and then particularly after 2003 when 184 mounds were identified and some selectively excavated. Those excavations have so far yielded 22 Shiva temples, 5 Vishnu temples, 10 Buddha Viharas, 3 Jain Viharas, a 6th/7th century market and snana-kund (bath house). The site shows extensive syncretism, where Buddhist and Jain statues or motifs intermingle with Shiva, Vishnu and Devi temples.

Lakshmana temple

(Lakhman Temple)

The Lakshmana temple, also spelled Laxman temple, is a 7th-century brick temple, mostly damaged and ruined. The garbhagriya entrance along with the tower and door carvings of the Lakshmana temple at Sirpur are reasonably intact enough to be studied. Above the sanctum door's lintel are carvings show a reclining Vishnu on Sesha
